

Spirit of the Lake Native Boutique

Video Clip 8: Exposure

Tasha: So them, West Kelowna Chamber of Commerce... I've had, like, the mayor has come here, the West Kelowna mayor came here. We did a photo op. I have a picture in my slideshow there that Janet Austin, the Honourable [Lieutenant Governor]... She came here with Westbank First Nation Chief and Council. They chose my business, so that was an amazing experience for her to come, and it's, like, "Wow!" And then, it just... It was just funny too because she was wearing red, and I was wearing red. And she's, like, "Wow. We're power colours," and she gave me a high-five. It's not the best... My eyes aren't open, but I was, like, I was happy at that moment. I said it was more of everybody else's eyes were open.

Q: Yeah.

Tasha: Yeah, so I chose that picture so... And I think the angle of the picture, too... I think one of the pictures I was blocking some... One of my... And those are my aunts. So, that's my Aunt Bev, my Aunt Sharon, and my dad are all in the picture, and they're really supportive of my business, and you know. They're shoppers. They're, like, "You need to open a new gift store." Yeah. It's funny but... Yeah. No. Just getting... Trying to get myself, I guess, connected with different organizations and getting my name out there to market because it is a big thing.
