Video Clip 4: Learning

Julie: Every event always has a spinoff. Like, every event that I do, that I haven't done before or I have no knowledge, it always brings more ideas, brings more thought to go this way or go that way. It's always changing with every event, and even when I go to other events, because I love going to different workshops and conferences and stuff, I really pay attention to how the room is set up or what gifts they provide or what makes their event unique or what did I enjoy the most, and I bring those ideas into my own event planning. Like, yeah. It just gives me more ideas when I get out there and am attending other events. So, it's... I do a lot of research and looking around and picking up different ideas.
